

Directions: Write a clear, well developed essay in response to the following prompt.

Prompt:

In an essay, compare and contrast the way the setting and culture in each story, including the values and attitudes held by people in that time and place, influences the characters and story events. Support your analysis with details about the setting you gathered while reading.

Consider the following questions while planning your writing:

- How do the characters in each story live?
- What cultural values, themes and issues are present in each story?
- Does the setting itself affect the events in each story?
- Do any characters in either story change their thinking or behavior because of the setting? If so, how?

Directions: Write a clear, well developed essay in response to the following prompt.

Prompt:

In an essay, compare and contrast the way the setting and culture in each story, including the values and attitudes held by people in that time and place, influences the characters and story events. Support your analysis with details about the setting you gathered while reading.

Consider the following questions while planning your writing:

- How do the characters in each story live?
- What cultural values, themes and issues are present in each story?
- Does the setting itself affect the events in each story?
- Do any characters in either story change their thinking or behavior because of the setting? If so, how?

Directions: Write a clear, well developed essay in response to the following prompt.

Prompt:

In an essay, compare and contrast the way the setting and culture in each story, including the values and attitudes held by people in that time and place, influences the characters and story events. Support your analysis with details about the setting you gathered while reading.

Consider the following questions while planning your writing:

- How do the characters in each story live?
- What cultural values, themes and issues are present in each story?
- Does the setting itself affect the events in each story?
- Do any characters in either story change their thinking or behavior because of the setting? If so, how?